Mini Petrifying Pizzas

It's SCARY how easy these snacks are to make.

These Petrifying Pizza Bites are so flexible and mean you don't have to restrict yourself to one kind of topping – you can go crazy and get as inventive as you like!

- Flour, for dusting
- 1 x pack ready-rolled puff pastry
- 1 egg, beaten
- 2 tbsp of green pesto
- 9 cherry tomatoes, hung, drawn and quartered
- 1 x 125g pack of mini-mozzarella balls, drained and quartered
- basil (optional)
- Black olives (optional)

Method

1. Preheat the oven to 200C/180C Fan/Gas 6
2. Lightly flour your work surface and roll the puff pastry flat
3. Cut your pastry into 36 little squares. Pop these on a baking tray and brush with egg
4. For your topping; place a little pesto in the centre of each square. Top with a quarter of a mozzarella ball and a quarter of a tomato.
5. Bake for 15 minutes, or until the pastry is puffed and golden-brown.
6. Decorate with cut up slices of black olive (arranged to look like a scary spider!)
